

At each corner, the subdifferential contains every slope between the two one-sided slopes.